SEARCH PRIVATE LIFE OF WOMAN

Indianapolis Murder Mystery Still Unsolved.

WOMAN'S PAST TO BE REVEALED

In Hope of Finding Person Who Kills Her.

Skill with Which Doctor Is Murdered and Great Precautions Taken To Avoid Leaving Any Evidence Leads Police To Believe the Crime Is Committed by Person of Extraordinary Intelligence.

Indianapolis, Oct. 26.—Information that a man with a handkerchief over his face was seen in the alley back of the Delaware apartments, in a room of which Dr. Helene Knabe was murderd, on the night of the killing, was given to the police today. This is the first definite clue that the police have obtained, and the entire detective force of the city was immediately put to work on it.

The man was seen about 1:30 Tuesday morning by a passerby, Joseph C. Carr, who gave the police the information. Carr was unable to give the size and general build of the man, but says he appeared to be well dressed. The murder is supposed to have been committed between 11 o'clock Monday night and 2 o'clock Tuesday morning. Physicians who examined the body said that Doctor Knabe had been dead from six to eight hours when found.

Mystery Unsolved.

Indianapolis, Oct. 26—Around the unraveling of the private relations of Dr. Helen Knabe, thrity-five, the police today centered their efforts to solve the baffling death mystery that lies locked within the dead body of the woman physician.

With the lapse of forty-eight hours since the discovery of the almost nude body in the physician's apartments, by Miss Katherine McPherson, office assistant to Dr. Knabe, the police today were apparently no nearer a solution of the questions that have been almost constantly on the lips of Indianapolis' 250,000 people since the discovery of the dead woman. Who is the murderer? What was the motive?

"Every detail obtainable in the private life of Dr. Knabe will be thoroughly investigated," said Captain of Detectives Holtz, in charge of the investigation, today. "The case has developed into a most extraordinary one, and I am satisfied that only by the most thorough search of the private life of the dead woman will we be able to solve the mystery of her death.

"Any disposition on the part of the medical fraternity to hide any thing would certainly work toward the shielding of the guilty in what appears to be the most brutal murder in the criminal annals of Indiana.

Had Erratic Temperament.

That Dr. Knabe had offended many persons in recent years, owing to her erratic temperament and blunt directness of speech is information that the police have secured. The names of many of these persons, some of whom are said to stand high in professional and social life in Indianapolis, have been given to the police, said Captain Holtz, today. Their whereabouts on the night of the crime are now being investigated.

The skill with which the throat of the dead physician was cut and the apparent completeness of the precaution taken by the slayer to avoid leaving any evidence that would lead to his apprehension, cause the police to believe that the murder was committed by a person of more than ordinary intelligence. The authorities also believe that the murderer was familiar with the surroundings under which he worked.

Miss Augusta Knabe, cousin of the dead woman, late yesterday filed a bill of sale in the probate court which disclosed that all of the dead woman's possessions were in her name.

"Financial reasons," was given by her today as an explanation. "I had loaned my cousin a large sum of money, the exact amount of which I do not care to state," she said today. "I knew that she would pay it back whenever she found herself able."

Possible Motives.

Criminal assault, robbery, revenge, a quarrel over money matters, and jealousy, are the possible motives that have thus far been offered as a solution to the murder mystery. Robbery, the police say, is practically eliminated by the fact that Dr. Knabe was comparatively poor and that her jewelry was not molested. Her enemies, the police say, are largely professional persons, who had become aggrieved at her remarks and it is inconceivable that they would have sought her life, which weakens the revenge theory. No love affair or other entanglement has yet been discovered giving basis for a jealousy motive as far as the authorities have been able to find. No indications of a criminal asault have been discovered. As it is known that the physician was in financial straits, money matters as a possible solution loom large in the eyes of the police. Coroner Durnham announced today that he hoped to complete the autopsy so that the burial of Dr. Knabe could take place tomorrow afternoon.

The city council has deferred action on offering a reward for the apprehension of the murderer.

GIGANTIC PHONE DEAL PROPOSED

New Jersey, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio Included.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 26.—Preliminary details by which a syndicate of English capitalists may acquire the independent telephone companies in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, and part of Illinois, are being made today and it is expected the deal will be closed at a meeting which will either be held here or in Wheeling, West Virginia, Tuesday. If the deal is made it will mean the payment of $10.-000,000 in cash and the issuance of $22,000,000 in bonds.

John W. Garland, chairman of the reorganization committee of the National Telephone corporation bondholders, is in New York, today, in connection with the scheme. Others interested in the plan are former Senator William Flynn, R. C. Hall, Joseph G. Splane, of this city, and John A. Howard, of Wheeling, West Virginia.

FATHER SHOOTS SON BY MISTAKE

Parent Is Prostrated by Accident and May Die.

Cadillac, Mich., Oct. 26.—Louis Judkins, agent for the Grand Rapids & Indiana railroad at Fife Lake, is in a dangerous condition today as the result of the death of his son, Jasper Judkins, twenty-three, whom he accidentally shot while they were in the woods. The father and son left the camp in opposite directions. Some time later the father shot at an object in the distant bush. It proved to be his son.

PEKING'S FALL EXPECTED SOON

General Li Yuen Hung Prepares To Advance.

REBELS DEFEAT IMPERIALISTS

A Desperate Battle Is Fought Near Hankow.

The Towns of Tsinanfu, Nanchang, Sukow and Kueilin Are Latest To Go Over to Revolutionists—Nankin Is Likely To Surrender at Any Time—Minister Ching Asuan Huai Is in Tight Place.

Shanghai, Oct. 26.—General Li Yuen Hung, commanding the rebel forces concentrated about Hankow, is reported today to be preparing for an immediate advance upon Peking.

The road to the capital was opened, messages by indirect routes from Hankow say, by the rebels' overwhelming victory over General Yin Chang's imperialist army either yesterday or Tuesday, reports conflicting as to the exact time of the engagement's conclusion. Accounts of the battle are vague, and all that is definitely known is that the imperialists were decisively beaten.

There are varying unconfirmed reports that General Yin himself was killed and that he was assassinated by a member of his own staff.

The towns of Tsinanfu, capital of Shantung province, Nanchang, Sukow and Kueilin are the latest to go over to the revolutionists and Nankin will probably be next to go.

Messages from Peking indicate that the government will not hesitate a moment at throwing Minister of Communications Cheng Hsuan Huai overboard in compliance with the national assembly's demand and if its calls for his life prove insistent enough, it is likely that this too, will be satisfied.

WORKS UP CASE AGAINST DIVINE

Prosecutor Prepares Richeson Evidence.

THIRTY WITNESSES WILL FACE JURY

Death of Girl Will Be Probed to Bottom.

Prosecutor's Plan Is To Develop History of Pastor's Acquaintance with Miss Linnell, Breaking of Engagement and Student's Tragic End in Proper Order, Event by Event—Star Witness on Stand.

Boston, Oct. 26.—The case against the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson is being laid before the grand jury today. District Attorney Pelletier and Assistant Michael Dwyer are shaping the testimony to show why and how they believe the clergyman killed Avis Linnell. Some thirty witnesses will tell their stories.

The prosecutor's plan is to develop the history of the clergyman's acquaintance with the pretty little country girl, the breaking of their engagement and Avis' tragic death in proper order—event by event.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Linnell, of Hyannis, Avis' parents, were the first witnesses today. Others called were William Hahn, of Newton Center, the druggist who sold cyanide of potassium to Richeson four days before Miss Linnell's death, and Hahn's assistant, George E. Cobb.

Today's star witnesses, Prosecutor Pelletier admitted, will be Hahn and Cobb. The latter was only brought into the case yesterday, as having been present when Hahn weighed out the poison and handed the package to Richeson.

So anxious is the prosecution lest some inkling of the nature of evidence should leak out before Richeson's actual arraignment in court that the witnesses were smuggled into the grand jury room by a secret entrance.

It is not expected that the last witness will have told his story before Friday or Saturday.

HEAD OF RAILROAD COMMITS SUICIDE

Lowry W. Goode Ends His Life in a Boston Hotel.

Boston, Oct. 26.—Although he committed suicide, yesterday morning, the death of Lowry W. Goode, president of the Cairo & Norfolk railroad company was not reported to the police until today, and an immediate investigation was started.

This investigation, however, showed to the police that Goode had killed himself by taking an overdose of morphine in his rooms in the Parker House. His body was found by his son, Lowry W. Goode, Jr.

Goode left three letters, one to his son, one to his wife, and one to the medical director of Boston, asking that his body be cremated immediately. Because of the mysterious circumstances surrounding the finding of the body, the police, in spite of a report that death was caused by natural causes, investigated and found the letters, which showed that Goode had killed himself because of depression over continued ill health.

Heavily Interested.

New York, Oct. 26.—Lowry W. Goode was a vice president, the treasurer and director in the Atlantic & Cairo Construction company, the president and director in the Cairo & Norfolk Railroad company, and the president and a director in the Kentucky Development company.

The declaration, accredited to Mrs. William C. Boyle, regent of Eastern Reserve chapter of Cleveland, was embodied in the report of the committee on child labor, legislation and conservation. The report was adopted.

Addresses were made by Mrs. Edward L. Harris, of Cleveland, Mrs. Franklin Franks, of Findlay, Mrs. Clayton R. Truesdall, of Fremont, and Professor Edward Erle Sparks, president of Pennsylvania college.

COMPANY CANCELS VALUABLE LEASE

United States Steel Corporation To Surrender Ore Properties.

New York, Oct. 26.—The directors of the United States Steel corporation today adopted a resolution recommending the cancellation of the Great Northern ore properties lease January 1, 1915.

J. P. Morgan attended the meeting.

The lease of the Great Northern ore properties was severely criticized in the recent report of Commissioner Herbert Knox Smith, of the department of commerce and labor, and the cancellation is said to have been in line with the corporation's policy to free itself of entangling alliances which might result in action in the United States courts to declare it a trust.

A resolution cancelling the lease also contained a recommendation that the Duluth, Mesaba & Northern, and the Duluth & Iron Range railroads, controlled by the corporation, shall reduce rates of transporting ore from the Mesaba ore fields of Duluth and to Two Harbors, Michigan, from eighty to sixty cents per gross ton.

It was denied that the resignation of William Ellis Corey as a director in the corporation was received.

STORK BRINGS NINE BOYS TO THREE HOMES

Neighbors Presented with Triplets in the Smoky City.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 26.—There is joy in the homes of Patrick Mulligan, Eustace Killeen and Abraham Muskowitz, who are next-door neighbors in White street, Turtle Creek, and this is the reason:

Between 12:30 and 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the stork visited the three homes and left at each place boy triplets. Muskowitz had not been on friendly terms with Mulligan and Killeen for several years, but yesterday they all made up and now they are celebrating at the Killeen home.

CZAR REPORTED ASSASSINATED

News Is Received from Vienna, but Is Not Confirmed.

London, Oct. 26.—No confirmation has been received here of the Vienna report that the Czar was wounded and his chauffeur killed by revolver shots today. The story is considered merely one of the wild rumors which gain periodical currency concerning the Russian ruler, and in official circles no credence is given to it.

Report from Vienna.

Vienna, Oct. 26.—The Czar was reported here at noon to have been wounded by a revolver shot while automobiling. The report has it that his chauffeur was killed by the assassin. The rumor is not generally believed.

WANTS LA FOLLETTE CLUB DISBANDED

President Smith Compares Wisconsin Senator to Absolom.

Ada, O., Oct. 26.—Comparing United States Senator La Follette to Absolom and styling him as a "demagogue, kissing the cheek of the American public," President Albert E. Smith, of the Ohio Northern university, today appealed for the disbanding of a La Follette club formed among the pupils of the college. Dr. Smith's reference to La Follette came during his regular morning talk at chapel.

President Taft delivered the commencement address at the college in 1910 and President Smith said he would regret to have Taft know that a La Follette club was being harbored at the university.

RAILROAD GIRD LOINS FOR FIGHT

Will Contest Ohio's Two-Cent Rate Law in Courts.

Columbus, O., Oct. 26.—An attempt may be made by railroads to knock out Ohio's 2-cent fare law. From Chicago comes the word that roads connected with the Central Passenger association, which takes in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, are plannig to attack the 2-cent fare laws of these states. The decision of Federal Judge Sanborn in the Minnesota rate case, it is understood, will be the basis of the attack. Judge Sanborn held that the Minnesota 2-cent law was unconstitutional because it interfered with interstate rates. He ruled that reductions within the state reduced interstate rates.

UPRISING AGAIN IN OLD MEXICO

Three States Are in Grip of the Rebels.

REPUBLIC FACES A GREAT CRISIS

Wave of Revolt Spreads to the Doors of Capital.

Fear of War with Guatemala Withdraws Troops from Mexico City and Revolutionists May Take Advantage of Situation and May Capture and Loot the Capital—Hand of Reyes Seen in Trouble.

Mexico City, Oct. 26.—With three states in the grip of the revolutionists and several others on the verge of rebellion against the Maderist government, Mexico today faces her greatest crisis since the commencement of the uprising against Diaz.

Starting in Chiapas, in the extreme south, the wave of revolt has spread until now it has arrived within four miles of Mexico City. The inhabitants of the capital are panic-stricken for fear the bloodthirsty Zapatistas, who left a trail of burning houses and massacred natives to mark their progress, may capture and loot the city before help can arrive.

The fear of war with Gutaemala has withdrawn a number of the government troops from the city and the capital is almost defenseless. Regiment after regiment of federal troops sent out to fight the rebels have been reported defeated by the Zapatistas.

The government is still awaiting details of the battle between 500 federal troops and 2,000 rebels which commenced Tuesday night and is reported to be still going on. The revolutionists have cut all telephone, and telegraph wires leading into the city.

Jeers Greet Bulletins.

That the people believe Madero himself is behind the "rebellion" is evident from the manner in which they receive the news that "the government is doing all it can to put down the rebels." Boos and jeers greet the bulletins placarded near the city hall, and the appearance of any of the Maderist officials is the signal for a storm of hisses. Madero and his cadinet continue their claims that the revolution will be "crushed within five days after the inauguration," but as that event is not scheduled until November 5, the people consider that there is still time for the Zapatistas to overrun the country and capture the capital before them.

Accordingly, the Reyes party is openly advocating a counter-move against both the rebels and the government in favor of aged General Bernardo Reyes. It is probable that the crisis of the revolution, which will either result in Madero's downfall or the complete triumph of the governmental party, will occur within a short time.

A DENVER PASTOR IS PUSHED OUT WINDOW

And Members of Flock Are Using Soothing Lotions.

Denver, Oct. 26.—Rev. W. S. Rudolph is nursing cuts and bruises, and a number of other members of the Union Presbyterian church are using soothing lotions as a result of ten minutes of lively fistcuffs over church affairs yesterday.

In the melee the pastor was thrown through a window.

Dr. Rudolph with a number of his friends was sitting in the rear of the church while trustees and others severely arraigned the pastor for attempting to retain possession of the church after he had resigned from the board of governors. Then a motion was carried to go into executive session in a room adjoining the church.

Dr. Rudolph led his cohorts to a back door and entered the room. A fight at once became general. Women, in hysterics, bolted into the open, while a dozen or more men punched at each other in grim carnestness.

BIG OBSTACLES FACING STATE

Hard To Get Jury To Try Southern Woman.

POLITICS PLAY A PART IN CASE

And Order of Eastern Star Is Also Introduced.

Prosecution Infers That Masonry and Sheriff's Affiliation with the Lodge to Which Accused Woman Belongs Aids Indicted Woman in Her Fight for Life—Veniremen Are Closely Questioned.

Opelousas, La., Oct. 26.—Southern chivalry, respect of women and scruples against inflicting capital punishment upon the gentler sex, even though a member of that sex were guilty of murder, are the principal obstacles which today faced the prosecution in the examination of veniremen for the trial of Mrs. Zoe Runge McRae, on trial for life for killing young Allan Garland last month.

Talesman after talesman, when questioned by Prosecuting Attorney Dubuisson, admitted that they would not vote to inflict the death penalty upon Mrs. McRae, even though they should find her guilty.

The prosecution immediately required their dismissal. In one or two instances the defense fought for the retention of the men, holding these "conscientious scruples," but the court ruled against their remaining on the jury.

So much difficulty has been met with in the selection of twelve unbiased men that Judge Pavy today announced that night sessions from 7:30 to 10:30 would be the rule in the future. Under this provision it is thought the taking of testimony will commence the first part of next week.

That Masonry and politics will play prominent parts in the trial was apparent again today, when the prosecution, in a more veiled manner than yesterday, referred to Sheriff Sword's affiliation with the Eastern Star, the secret order which is aiding the accused woman in her fight for life and freedom. Every venireman is closely questioned as to his views with regard to Masonic orders and it is patently the object of the state to exclude, if possible, every man who belongs to or is in sympathy with this order.

COURT'S RULING STIRS DEFENSE

More Veniremen Disqualified in Los Angeles.

LAWYER DARROW GROWS SARCASTIC

He and Associates Worried Over Fight.

Judge's Action in Excusing Two Socialists, After They Admit Belief That Gas Destroys Times Plant, Is Objected to by Defense and Counsel Seems on the Fence—A New Venire Is Summoned.

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 26.—Judge Bordwell's ruling that the holding of an opinion that gas destroyed the Los Angeles Times when based on personal investigations, disqualifies a juror in the McNamara case, even though such investigation merely consisted of reading all the accounts published regarding the matter, and of talking with people who had experience in handling dynamite, has greatly angered the McNamara defense.

This was evident when Attorney Darrow today resumed examination of E. T. Essley, the last remaining venireman of the original panel. Whenever he had a chance, Darrow sarcastically referred to the question whether the venireman's opinion about anything could be based on personal knowledge.

The action of the court in excusing Walter L. Coward, an admitted Socialist, yesterday, and W. L. Allen, the only other Socialist yet drawn, a week ago, after they admitted a belief that gas destroyed the Times, while at the same time he overruled the defense's objection to George W. McKee, who said he believed the Times was dynamited, has worried McNamara's lawyers, despite Bordwell's reiterated statement that he would give the defense the benefit of the doubt wherever he thought it necessary. Consequently when court resumed today they went very fully into their questioning of veniremen, laying the most elaborate foundation before formally framing a challenge.

A New Venire.

A new venire is being summoned and meanwhile the court will proceed with "borrowed" veniremen from other departments of the superior courts.

The defense's dynamite expert, John Birmingham, of San Francisco, today turned over to Darrow elaborate notations of his investigation of the effect of an accidental explosion late yesterday on the old Times site. This explosion, which was due to an overcharge, shattered windows across the street from the Times site. It is admitted that a far smaller quantity of dynamite of much less explosive power was used than that in the bomb of high-powered gelatine James B. McNamara is alleged to have set off under the Times. Yet yesterday's explosion shattered windows across Broadway while the original Times explosion broke none.

The only ones affected at that time were a few which were cracked by the intense heat of the fire. This is expected to prove an important point for the defense when the case finally gets to trial.

MISSING MINISTER IS BEING HUNTED

Rev. Mr. Hall, of St. Mary's, Disappears from Home.

George Hall, who disappeared October 14, says the missing minister on the day he vanished sold a residence in Westerville, Ohio. No trace of him since has been found.

Rev. Mrs. Hall, who is in charge of St. Mary's United Brethren church here, for several days has been investigating her husband's disappearance from Westerville.

Mrs. Hall writes that friends here say the minister had at least $400 in his possession the day he left. They report he stated he would return the next day.

MRS. E. G. ALLEN HAS AN ANCIENT BIBLE

It Is Printed in England in the Year 1711.

SUSANNA MORRIS THE ORIGINAL OWNER

First Owner Is a Quaker Preacher and Tears the Pictures Out of the Bible, Feeling That It Detracts from the Reading Matter—Record of Book Through Generations.

Mrs E G Allen, of east Center street, has in her possession one of the oldest Bibles in the city The heirloom, which Mrs Allen can trace back for six generations, came to her through the death of her cousin, Anna Kincaid, who died in Chicago last April After her death the book was found in the Kincaid home in Michigan when the estate was settled She being the last survivor of her family the book passed into the hands of her cousin, Mrs Allen who prizes it very highly

The Bible was printed in London, England, in 1711 by Charles Bill, the executor of the estate of Thomas Newcomb, deceased, printers to the queen The book, which is four inches thick, ten inches wide and sixteen inches long, has a wood covering with outside layers of thin leather and the corners are bound in brass The clasps are also of brass The pages are yellow with age, but are printed in good-sized type and can be easily read The book is in very good condition, considering its long usage It is illustrated throughout and at one time contained colored prints, but these were torn out by the orignal owner, Susanna Morris, a Quaker peracher, who thought that more attention was being paid the illustrations than the reading matter

The following inscription appears on the title page Book of Common Prayer and Administration of the Sacraments and other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church, according to the use of the church of England, together with the Psalter or Psalms of David printed as they are to be said in the churches"

The first record the descendants now living have of this Bible is that it was presented to Susanna Morris, a Quaker preacher by her parents in 1729 Mrs Morris crossed the ocean seven times during her life each time taking the book with her She left the Bible to her daughter, and it has since descended from the oldest daughter to the oldest daughter down to the present time until it came into the hands of Mrs Allen As it passed from generation to generation it came into the hands of Mrs Allen's grandmother, Mrs Abel Thomas who left it to her daughter Mary R Thomas aunt of Mrs Allen The last owner was Miss Anna Kincaid daughter of Mrs Hannah Thomas Kincaid

SOLACE PRETTY WELL EQUIPPED FOR WORK

Uncle Sam's Hospital Ship and Its Accommodations.

CONVENIENCES OF A HOSPITAL ASHORE

The Ship Has Accommodations for Nine Officers and 234 Enlisted Men—The Ship Flies the Red Cross Flag—How the Patients Are Handled.

The naval hospital ship Relief, which under command of Surgeon C F Stokes, now surgeon-general of the United States navy, served with the battleship fleet during part of its cruise around the world, is now considered unseaworthy

She is tied up at Olongapo, Philippine islands, as a station hospital She was not intended to encounter heavy weather, but was originally built as a passenger boat for use on inland waters, and when struck by a typhoon had a very narrow escape from total destruction, in all probability she will do no more cruising

This leaves the Solace as the only available hospital ship in the United States navy There are very few in the world but it is believed, says a writer in the Medical Journal, that their value both in peace and in war is now so well understood that before long we shall have more of the class and they will be specially designed and built for such service

The Solace, like the Relief, was originally built for the merchant service and was the Creole of the Morgan line Since she was purchased by the navy department she was served as hospital ship, as a transport running between San Francisco and Manila, and again since November, 1909, as a hospital ship

Having been built for other purposes that are lacking some important features which such a vessel should have Her size, displacement 5,700 tons, gross tonnage 3-801 tons, length 361 feet, beam forty-four feet, draught, twenty-two feet, does not seem very great when compared with battleships now under construction of 27,000 tons She is larger, however, than the Chicago, the flagship of the squadron of evolution of some twenty years ago and at that time the largest completed vessel in the navy

In the hospital department the capacity for patients is stated as nine officers, each having a separate stateroom, and 234 enlisted men, for whom there are in place 166 fixed berths, the others being provided for in hammocks and cots There are three wards on the hurricane deck, with twelve, ten and eight berths used as isolation wards for tuberculosis and for the diseases of childhood, which are nearly always brought along by the drafts of young recruits of our enlisted force

The hospital facilities include a laboratory with miscroscope, ultramicroscope, incubator, laboratory animals, &c, a special dark room equipped for nose, throat and ear work and for opthalmoscopic examinations, a light opthalmological room with twenty foot space for vision testing, dispensary, general operating room with two glass topped tables and with fully equipped sterilizing room adjoining, an exceptionally well equipped X-ray and electrotherapeutic room, well equipped dental office, three strong rooms for insane and alcoholic patients, two dressing rooms electrically equipped, diet kitchen, steam laundry, steam and formalin disinfecting chamber and refrigerating morgue

The disinfecting chamber is large and serves for linen and the effects of patients on board and also for material sent from other ships or shore camps In the morgue the remains of any men who may die in the fleet are received, embalmed, placed in a metal lined casket and on request shipped at government expense to the next of kin

A denes air ice machine furnishes the ice required, even in tropical waters and supplies cold air to storage rooms with capacity of fresh provision for about six weeks Distillers produce about 8,000 gallons of fresh water daily On the broad hurricane deck are wicker reclining chairs for convalescents, tuberculosis patients and others feeling the need of a little rest and relaxation On this deck tents are often pitched for special cases requiring isolation and in pleasant weather cots may be placed there

An elevator facilitates the transfer of patients from the operating room and upper deck to the principal wards on the main deck or to the X-ray room and convalescents ward on the berth deck two decks below Specially devised cranes permit of patients being hoisted in a Stokes splint stretcher from a boat alongside without discomfort and in a recumbent posture even in a seaway

Nine ordinary boats and two steam launches are provided and one of the launches is specially devised for convenient use as an ambulance boat Broad gangways and large cargo ports placed low in the ship's side permit the easy reception or transfer of patients in calm water or when alongside a wharf

The Red Cross flag flying at the mainmast and the peculiar painting of the ship's side, white with a green streak one and a half meters in width and running from bow to stern, attract attention and frequently require the explanation that they are provided as the distinguishing marks of a government owned hospital ship by the terms of the Hague convention of 1907, which extended the provisions of the Geneva convention to maritime warfare In the case of a hospital ship fitted out by an individual or society the green band is replaced by one of red

FILTH SHOULD BE BARRED FROM MAILS

We can not understand the case of "nerves" developed by the Columbus Dispatch over the ruling of the postoffice authorities that the report of the Chicago vice commission is unmailable—except upon the presumption that, as the sworn foe of the present national administration, it uses every pretext for an attack. There is, despite the protest of the Dispatch, no reason for criticism of the action of the department. The story of vice in Chicago will not help the officials to locate or treat vice in Columbus. The report of the commission, as filed, was, we are informed, and so the postoffice department adjudged, filled with details of obscenity and vulgarity almost unimagmable. Such conditions exist to greater or less extent in all cities, even in Columbus, as any wide-awake reporter on the Dispatch can demonstrate to his editor.

Any person, in good faith and for purposes of study and the bettering of conditions, can doubtless, upon proof of the purity of his intentions, have copies of this report sent to him by express. It should not be made easy for the vicious minded to obtain it or to have it thrust upon the innocent. And after all, the valuable part of such a report is always in the recommendations and remedies proposed rather than in the details of conditions discovered. The forms of vice vary only in degree in different localities.

The Dispatch also professes to fear an assault by the present administration upon the "liberty of the press" in some restrictions made regarding the publication of testimony relating to total depravity in a recent Virginia murder case. Again we can not agree, and again we are forced to believe that our Columbus contemporary is actuated only by political animus, for it has always itself stood for clean, decent journalism. The "liberty of the press," as understood by the fathers of the Republic did not contemplate license or the purveying of filth. The Dispatch will not seriously contend that the publication of the nasty details revealed in the Beattie case was essential to the public welfare. We have always believed that a newspaper had no legal right to publish, merely to gratify a prurient curiosity, matter which it would be a crime for one individual to transmit to another even in a sealed letter.

Speaking for ourselves we welcome the assistance of the postoffice department in the keeping of this and other newspapers in the line of decency and clean-mindedness.

Judging by the operation of the recall where it has been tried, it's a plan whereby the minority may overrule the wishes of the majority.

The LaFollette boom would find itself in mighty hard lines should the senator catch a cold.

Possibly Secretary Wilson has decided not to resign till he can find a man to succeed him who is capable of saving the country's crops.

The census shows that Canada, with all the booming and offering bounties on the scalps of live immigrants has only 7,000,000 people. Hardly worth annexing, yet.

Bob LaFollette's effort to "get Senator Stephenson in bad" is proving something of a boomerang.

Mr. Hearst has decided that this is his year to be a Democrat and has made proclamation accordingly. He will probably remain "regular" until the national convention refuses again to nominate him for president, whereupon he will leave the reservation, dig up the hatchet and put on the war paint. This is according to precedent.

The son-in-law of the late Banker Walsh holds President Taft responsible for Walsh's death because the president didn't pardon him sooner. The only way for a president to escape a charge of that kind is to pardon all federal law-breakers before they are committed to prison.

Coming down to bed rock, the hope of the insurgents isn't to elect Bob La Follette, but to defeat William H Taft.

"It is my observation," said the restaurant philosopher at luncheon today," that the fellow who yells loudest for the initiative, referendum and recall is generally the fellow who has his eye on some office or his neighbor's property."

Up to a late hour this afternoon Senator La Follette had not denied that "Uncle Ike" Stephenson put up $100,000 to grease the ways for the launching of the La Follette senatorial boom or paid back to "Uncle Ike" the $100,000 alleged to have been paid out in assisting the La Follette senatorial candidacy.

Senator La Follette doesn't appear to realize that the people of the United States want some other recommendation for a presidential candidate than that of the candidate.

A Missouri mute has been arrested for swearing at the wife of his next door neighbor. She must have followed the lead of the easily-shocked Massachusetts woman, who complained that the youngsters went in swimming two miles down the beach, and used a pair of glasses.

One reason why so few insurgents attended that much advertised "gathering of the Progressive hosts" in Chicago may be that the majority of the western insurgents had already climbed into the Taft band-wagon.

THE PARAGRAPHERS.

Easy Proposition.

Almost any young widow can teach a man how to fall in love.—Toledo Blade.

Crazy To Use It.

An Ohio man has gone crazy because he habitually dyed his hair. So says the report. Others think it was the other way.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Gallus Kind.

An advanced woman always excuses herself for wearing a corset by explaining that she has to have something to anchor her stocking to.—Ohio State Journal.

Peace Argument.

In 1910 Japan sold in the United States $74,250,000 worth of goods and in all Europe but $54,250,000 worth. If the Japanese to oblige Captain Hobson should make war upon us they would suffer a serious loss of trade.—Akron Beacon-Journal.

Not Immune.

Woodrow Wilson should be warned that his long association with Jersey mosquitoes has not made him immune against the sting that the presidential bee sometime inflicts.—Cleviland Leader.

Will Understand.

Secretary Wilson has arrived at Washington in time to deny the story that he is to resign. "I have no thought of sending in my resignation," he says, "any time soon." Therefore, if the secretary does leave office soon, everybody will know the manner of his going.—Columbus Dispatch.

A Cheap Game.

In his "Commoner" Colonel Bryan says: "The tariff on wool is the keystone of the protectionist arch," and that the Democrats in congress when they passed the wool bill, betrayed the Democratic party, only to play a cheap game and put the president in a hole, a purpose that was a disgrace to the party.—Mansfield News.

TAFT'S GREAT WORK.

With his face set toward the East and with the horizon of western conquests passing into the perspective behind him, President Taft is returning from his 13,000-mile tour in his official capacity stronger in the affections of all Americans than ever before. His discussion of national themes, the absolute uniformity of all sections in interest in them, and the general sentiment that the nationalizing influences at work are for the binding together of the people in the general scheme of industry and advance are incidents of the trip made by President Taft.

The day has passed when a South or a West had its own viewpoints and problems. All problems are national, all viewpoints are as broad as the country's bounds. The location of any particular condition or the place of emphasis of any particular policy does not alter the fact that the entire people are co-ordinated in their judgment with respect to it and their interest in its issue.

Mr. Taft has done splendid work for effective nationalism. He has made more broader and more sincere the devotion of the people to law and order, to peace and to the factors of basic prosperity. Without partisan or personal ends, his tour has, nevertheless, done much to dissipate the purposely conceived misapprehensions with regard to the nation's head. It has set him in the advance line of progressiveness, and yet as the bulwark of the country against the radical aims of ephemeral expedients.—Baltimore American.

PRISON FOR GUN-TOTERS.

In the municipal court of Boston, last Tuesday, three men who had been caught in a raid on a gambling house were arraigned before Judge Murray. He sent each of them to the workhouse for twenty days not for gambling but because when arrested they had loaded revolvers in their possession. Then he gave formal notice that thereafter all persons brought before him for carrying revolvers, whether loaded or not, would be sentenced to imprisonment.

Thus Boston has joined New York in a practical crusade against the carrying of concealed weapons. Possibly other cities are taking the same course. Moral suasion and the golden rule will not avail here. Tolerance of this form of law-breaking has long existed in most parts of the country and the result has been woeful, especially in the large cities. The result to the bullet and the knife for vengeance and in quarrels has become so common that America is notorious before the world for the cheapness in which it holds human life. Death from the revolver is so common that it seems difficult to arouse police officials and judges and makers of laws to the hideousness of the situation and the fact that they are responsible for it.

Ohio needs a law something like that in New York. But at present the laws that exist should be enforced. Cleveland will welcome the day when the police begin to arrest men and boys who carry concealed weapons and the judges of the police court serve the same kind of notice that has just been given in Boston.—Cleveland Leader.

INTERESTING BITS.

Of all the paper used in the world during 1910 it is said that the United States consumed more than one-half.

An auto omnibus service is projected for Havana to be formed along the lines of similar enterprises in European cities.

Affirming the Dictograph.

The law that permits the discovery of crime through the laying of a trap, is in accord with common sense. One of the abuses of the day is treating crime with kid glove consideration, so that one must be exceedingly careful about the method used for finding it out. There is no need for this extraordinary care. It is honorable to detect crime any way that is necessary to detect it; and any device or process that will expose the facts is not only justified but demanded.

How can any human right be violated by the introduction of a dictagraph, either by a private person or by a public officer? There appears to be a distinction between these two uses, but it does seem that public authority, in defense of the people, in matters connected with the public welfare, should be permitted mechanical genius and enterprise to get at the truth that belongs to it. We are getting altogether too fastidious about the prerogatives of crime. It ought to be understood that the distagraph is one of the symbols of judicial progress; one of the agents of truth that the courts stand so much in need of. In this era of perjury and lying, to have a little machine that tells the truth without fear or favor, is a godsend truly. It is a good sign that judicial decision stands by it. Whether it states the truth or not is the question for the jury.—Ohio State Journal.

During June 40,000 immigrants were admitted into Canada. Of these, 27,035 arrived through ocean ports and the balance crossed the line from the United States. This is an increase of 5,527 over the same month in 1909.

SHIP BRINGS LOAD OF WILD ANIMALS

Gifts of Naturalist to the Zoo in New York City.

New York, Oct. 24.—Twenty-eight cases of very much alive animals came in Monday on the menagerie deck of the Atlantic transport liner Minneapolis, which often brings four-footed passengers. The beasties were the gift to the New York zoological gardens in the Bronx from Paul Rainey, the millionaire sportsman and naturalist formerly of Cleveland.

Rainey, who went to the Arctic regions with Harry Payne Whitney at the time of the Cook-Peary controversy, has been in central Africa the last six months and caught the animals himself with the aid of Thomas Wales, who had charge of the shipment on the Minneapolis.

John W. Hammond of this city, a young man not unknown to adventure, who was also with Rainey, is a passenger on the Adriatic bound for this port with a lot of moving pictures of lions, tigers, giraffes and other fearsome creatures taken in the perilous jungle.

In the present collection are eight lion cubs and two leopard cubs. One of the leopards is very vicious. A reporter took a peek at him through the trap in the top of his box and nearly lost his whiskers by a swipe of a long-clawed yellow paw.

Common Sense
IN Player Pianos

The condition most sought for in a Player Piano is the power of musical expression with the least effort. To be attained, it must be "built in," it must be part of the Player mechanism from the ground work up.

Expression attachments of various kinds that have nothing to do with the Player mechanism as a whole not only prove incompleteness of construction, but reduce the musical pleasure by the attention they require.

The wonderful musical effects produced by our Player Pianos are due to the highly developed power of expression throughout the Player mechanism as a whole. This explains our claim of having overcome the mechanical effects so apparent in the ordinary Player Piano.

Osborne, of Prospect, who will make his future home in Los Angeles.

THE OLD SONGS.

By William T. Ellis.

The International Sunday-School Lesson for October 29 Is "A Psalm of Deliverance." Psalm 85.

If one judged the public taste and intelligence by the "popular songs" of the day, he would have warrant for turning pessimist. What people really think of these current jingles is shown by the short duration of their vogue: a few weeks, or months at the most, is the longest that the public will endure them, and then others, equally bad, take their place.

Not so with the old songs. The great poems of our tongue find increasing favor as the years pass. The old songs grow dearer against the ugly background of these new productions. The poems that touch the depths of nature abide.

And it is a striking fact, of more than strictly religious interest, that the most popular songs in all human speech are an inheritance from the ancient Hebrews, the newest of the songs being older than the Christian era. A simple, pastoral people, expressing at once the primitive and the sublimest human emotions, have given the world its loftiest literature.

The Permanent Passions.

A rather ludicrous group of social faddists believe that they can make over human nature by hanging choice pictures on the wall of ignorance, providing fine music for undiscriminating ears, and talking vague idealism to men and women engrossed in the hard realities of life. Little they reek of persisting human nature. They think to evolve an ideal civilization in a generation or two; but they conveniently ignore the long milleniums in which human nature has remained essentially the same.

The power of the appeal of the Psalms resides in their fidelity to the fundamental, abiding passions of life. They are true to universal sentiments. The poets of today try in vain to awaken an answering echo from the popular heart; these old Hebrews are still expressing to a nicety the experience of all sorts and conditions of men. The tremendous truthfulness of the Psalms to life, and to the deepest needs of mankind, is the real reason for their deathless vogue.

The Hosts Helped.

Contemplate for a moment the procession of thirsty hearts that have been refreshed at the fountain of Hebrew psalmody. The picture thrills. There are the captive exils in chains leaving the land of Canaan; some of the same, and their children, are returning, but the feelings of both are voiced by the Psalms. To battle, to dungeons, to death, through unimaginable vicissitudes extending over almost three thousand years, the children of Abraham have marched to the music of the Psalms. The hunted Christians of the apostolic age voiced their inextinguishable faith by the same old melodies. The Crusaders, the Puritans, and a countless company of kindred high souls, have been heartened by the inspired and inspiring Hebrew songs. Kings and statesmen and men of large affairs have turned for comfort and sustenance to these melodies from royal pens. The aspiring youth, the burdened man and woman, the grief-stricken, the doubting, the fearful and the dying, in innumerable hosts, have turned first to this never-failing spring of comfort.

David's share of the Psalms are greater work than slaying Goliath, or smiting the Philistines or ruling a kingdom. And of the other writers, some of them unknown, we can only rejoice that there have been men who have spoken from the depths and the heights, and that their heart-cries have lived. In the wine-press of intense experiences, their souls have given forth the wine of comfort to an uncounted company. Similarly, Matheson's rejection because of his blindness by the woman he loved has been blessed to millions in his hymn, "O, Love that wilt not let me go." Samuel Rutherford's imprisonment at Aberdeen bore fruit in his letters and from these Mrs. Anne Cousins extracted the phrases which she wove into the exquisite hymn, "The sands of time are sinking."

When Heart Speaks to Heart.

As we consider the Psalms, for this is the only lesson of the year from them and this particular one in which the souls of the returned exiles found utterance, the query is forced upon us. "Where are the great soul-songs for today?" Trivial verse we have a-plenty; esoteric, neurasthenic, nebulous musings in rhyme, burden the mail of editors, but where are the songs that vocalize the deep sentiments of the people? The woman suffragists of New York offered a prize for a hymn and all they got was twaddle. In a huge labor demonstration in Philadelphia a few days ago, the prevailing song was the bloody French "Marseillaise," because there are no ringing English words to express the stirred emotions of men in a mass. The national anthems of both the United States and Canada are confessedly inadequate. We have not yet reached the great songs for our own time.

The best music is religious; there are many hymns, in addition to the Psalms, that voice the deepest feelings of the soul. Even, here, however, there are strange hiatuses. Who can pick out a worthy hymn of invitation to the unconverted? Most of the so-called missionary hymns are filled with bad geography bad history, and inexcusable provincialism. With a spirit of brotherhood sweeping over the world, there is yet no worthy brotherhood hymn. Good citizenship has evoked no distinctive hymn; nor has the passion for social amelioration. What a field for poets, if they would but forget themselves and catch a vision.

Still we turn to the Psalms for the clearest echo of the soul's mood. They speak from heart to heart. We are not sure who wrote them all. Some seventy-three are definitely ascribed to David; Moses wrote at least one, and Solomon some; Asaph and the Sons of Korah, are also in the index; but many of the 150 are anonymous; and we can only say that in each case it was the truest and best expression of a human heart, intensely sensible of Jehovah, that cried out in sincerity—and, lo, the cry still lives!

The Shepherd With His Flute.

One evening, under the eastern slope of Mt. Carmel, I saw a shepherd boy leading home his sheep; and as he walked in front of them he played upon a home-made flute. The melody was simple, sweet, joyous, unusual—a bit of nature's music in the open air. I have forgotten the performances of many great orchestras that I have heard, but I remember that strangely sweet music, apparently improvised, of the shepherd boy of Samaria, who called up visions of the shepherd Psalmist of 3,000 years ago.

The passion for music is primitive with the oriental. He naturally breaks forth into it. When he is happy, he sings; when he is sad, he sings; when he dies, his friends sing dirges over his death. Equally fundamental to the oriental is the thought of God. He cannot conceive of life apart from the supreme Deity. "In'sh Allah"—"It is the will of God!"—still sprinkles the conversation of every Arab.

Thus we have the Psalm of deliverance. Westerners might have talked of good luck, or boasted of their own merits; but these exiles from Babylon thought first and only of God. Their instinctive cry, as one of their singers phrased it, was:

"When Jehovah brought back those that returned to Zion,
We were like unto them that dream,
Then was our mouth filled with laughter,
And our tongue with singing:
Then said they among the nations,
Jehovah hath done great things for them.
Jehovah hath done great things for us:
Whereof we are glad."

These Jews clearly traced, as cause and effect, the favor of Jehovah, with the foregiveness of sin, and their deliverance from exile.

"Jehovah, thou hast been favorable
unto Thy land;
Thou hast brought back the captivity
of Jacob.
Thou hast forgiven the iniquity of
Thy people;
Thou hast covered all their sin."

That is the essence of the lesson's teaching; it is the heart of hearts of the five books of Psalms; the favor of Jehovah is the one supreme blessing of life.

"Our midnight is Thy smile withdrawn,
Our noontide is Thy gracious dawn."

Get this grip on the fact of God, and life becomes no more a mystery. "Our times are in His hand." There is no higher philosophy than the twenty-third Psalm.

CHARGE OF ABDUCTION AGAINST YOUNG MEN

Alleged Delaware Boys Abduct Young Girl Recently.

DRIVE TO HER HOME AND THEN DISAPPEAR

Warrant Is Issued for Ray Baker and Charles Moore—Girl Is Only Fifteen Years of Age and Has No Mother—Father Is in the Greatest of Distress.

Charged with abducting fifteen-year-old Murnie Meyers, of Peru township, Morrow county, two young men giving their names as Ray Baker and Charles Moore, of Delaware county, are being sought by Ohio officers.

The warrant was sworn out late Friday afternoon in Mt. Gilead by Marion Meyers, father of the girl.

Baker and Moore have been visiting the Meyers girl often during the past few months, and their calls were objected to by the girl's father. The daughter paid little heed to parental advice and still allowed the two young men to call.

October 8, while Meyers was working in a field quite a distance from his home, the Delaware county boys drove up with a rig which they had hired from Liveryman Dan Chase at Marengo, and took the girl with them in the buggy.

They drove directly to Marengo, where they used the telephone to notify Chase that they were through with his rig and that he could send for it if he wanted it again.

Where the trio went from Centerburg no one knows. It is believed that they took a T. & O. C. train out of that point and are now in another state.

It is hard to figure the exact intentions of the young men, especially in view of the fact that they were together when they visited the Meyers home.

The girl has been absent from home two weeks, and her father is almost distracted. She has no mother and the parent now left alone in the world can not be comforted by neighbors who called to offer sympathy in this time of great distress.

In a desperate and heart-stirring appeal to help find his daughter, Meyers visited the Morrow county capital Friday afternoon and filed the affidavits for the arrest of the two Delaware county young men. Officers of Ohio and adjoining states are keeping a sharp eye for the trio. —Delaware Journal-Herald.

POLICE COURT.

Delbert Johnson, residing near Green Camp, drove to Marion Saturday evening and hitched his horse on west Church street, in front of Dr. E. L. Brady's office. About 8:30 o'clock, when he went after his rig, it was gone. Johnson reported the matter to the police and gave the officers a description of the horse and buggy. About 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning, the horse came strolling into town from the east and was taken in charge by the police and returned to its owner. The horse was taken from the same pole from which A. S. Ullom's horse was taken Wednesday night, and it is the opinion of the officers that some person in the eastern part of the county has used the rigs to drive home.

Chief Klinefelter received a communication from Columbus, Monday morning, stating that Walter Carmen was being held at the city prison there for the local authorities. Carmen has been confined at St. Francis' hospital suffering of a bullet wound from the accidental discharge of a revolver in the hands of his partner, Albert Freeburg. Carmen has already confessed to being implicated with Albert Freeburg in the burglary at the clothing store of W. P. Kelly, on west Center street, the morning of September 10. He was brought back here to appear before the grand jury with Freeburg, the latter now being confined in the county jail.

GENERAL SHAN ASSASSINATED

Loyalist Chinese Commander Loses His Life.

BOMB IS THROWN ONTO A STEAMBOAT

Canton on Verge of Joining the Rebellion.

From Peking Comes the News That Imperial Court Has Completed Preparations for Flight at a Moment's Notice to Je-Hol, One of the Imperial Palaces 120 Miles North of the Capital.

Shanghai, Oct. 25.—General Feng Shan, newly-appointed military governor of Canton, was blown up by a bomb today. Canton messages differ as to whether he was killed or only badly injured. One report says his wife was also killed. About thirty soldiers who accompanied them are known to have perished.

General Feng was chosen for the Canton post as successor to General Cung, who was assassinated last spring. He and his wife, with their military escort, were just leaving their steamboat at Canton at the moment of the attack on them. As they were crossing the gangplank, the bomb was tossed from the roof of a house overlooking the wharf. It exploded with a terrific report, hurling mangled bodies in every direction.

The attempt upon the general was undoubtedly made by revolutionists, and it is almost certain that a genral rising will speedily follow. Revolutionary sentiment in Canton is so strong that the city will probably be easily turned over to the rebels.

Messages from Hankow say the rebels are planning to establish a provisional republic with headquarters at Kiu Kiang.

Government May Yield.

The town of Tchen-Chow, near the center of Ponan province, was captured by rebels today. The devlopments mark the rebellion's spread to the northward towards Peking. Tchen-Chow is also an important strategic point. Details are lacking of the circumstances of its capture. Its surrender by the imperialists, following yesterday's surrender without a blow of Sian Fu, the ancient capital of China and capital of the province of Shen-Si, has completely broken the government's nerve and from Peking comes the news that the imperial court has completed all preparations for flight at a moment's notice to Je-Hol, one of the imperial palaces 120 miles north of the capital.

The towns which have thus far fallen wholly into the rebel's hands are Wu Chang, Hankow, Chang-Sha, Kia-Ting, Han-Yang, Hwang-Chow, Sin-Gan-Fu, Hu-Kow, I-Chang, Kiu-Kiang, Siang-Fu and Tchen-Chow.

Canton and Nankin are momentarily expected to surrender.

FORMER MARION MEN ARE JAILED

Held in Huron County on a Charge of Burglary.

Charles Harnish, alias Charles Smith, and Fred Moffitt, who for the past several months were employed in this city and who were charged by Mrs. Alice McDonald, of north Prospect street, with jumping a board bill amounting to about $14.45, were arrested by G. H. Smith and J. Billington, two Big Four detectives, at New London, Sunday night, on a charge of the theft of a quantity of tools and hardware at that place, Sunday night, and are now in the Huron county jail.

At a store conducted by Horce D. Palmer, near the Big Four tracks at New London, a window had been pried and a large number of valuable tools were taken. Later the Big Four detectives found the men wandering along the track near that place and placed them under arrest. It was found that they had with them a large number of the tools of the sort missing from the store. When examined closely, Harnish confessed to having taken the articles and later confessed to having burglarized the store.

The two men were arraigned before Mayor R. J. Smith at New London and entered a plea of guilty to the charge placed against them. They were bound over to the grand jury on a bond of $250, which they were unable to furnish, and were sent to jail.

At the McDonald home in this city, where the men boarded, a number of articles were found, and it is believed that the men were guilty of petty burglaries here.

Bellefontaine, O., Oct. 25.—Rev. J. E. Hootman, new pastor of the First Church of Christ, this city, will claim as his bride Miss Ellen Campbell Brandon, daughter of James S. Campbell, New Cumberland, West Virginia, banker. The wedding is the culmination of a romance.

GEORGE E. SALMON DIES TUESDAY NIGHT

Death Comes After an Extremely Long Illness.

PROMINENT RESIDENT OF MARION COUNTY

Mr. Salmon Comes to Marion County in 1880—Is a Member of the Local Masonic Bodies and of the Presbyterian Church—The Arrangements for the Funeral.

George E. Salmon, for many years an influential citizen and financier of this city, passed from this life at his home three miles south of the city, Tuesday night at 11 o'clock. He had been an invalid for several years suffering from an incurable heart disease, but was able to atend to his business interests and look after his farms. For the past week his condition had been more serious and Tuesday evening he suffered an attack of acute indigestion, causing great pain. His attending physician, Dr. F. Young, was hastily summoned and at 10 o'clock Mr. Salmon was resting easy. A short time later he suffered a relapse and died at 11 o'clock.

M. Salmon was born in Columbia county, Pennsylvania, April 10, 1839, being about seventy-two years of age at the time of his death. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaiah Salmon and one of his ancestors came to America in the historic Mayflower. His great-grand-father, John Salmon, came from France and his grandfather was captured by the Indians in the French and Indian war remaining with them two years. Mr. Salmon was one of thirteen children, two of whom, James and Clark Salmon, were Presbyterian ministers. At the age of fifteen his father died and he was then apprenticed to a cabinet-maker for three years. At the end of that time he returned to his mother's farm remained until he was twenty-one. He then worked in a woolen-mill until his enlistment in 1864, in 1 company, 207th regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteer infantry. He was wounded at Petersburg April 2, 1865. After lying in a hospital several months he was honorably discharged July 7, 1865. In the spring of 1866, he went to Michigan where he engaged in farming, and also for eight years in the mercantile business. June 12, 1878, he was married to Miss Anna Gooding, daughter of Francis and Harriet Salmon Gooding. To this union were born two children both of whom died in infancy.

Aside from his widow, Mr. Salmon is survived by a few distant relatives in Pennsylvania and the southern part of Ohio. Mrs. John H. Stoll of this city, a cousin, is his nearest relative in this vicinity.

After a residence of fourteen years in Michigan, Mr. Salmon came to this county and has since resided here. He purchased the farm on which he died in 1880. He was connected with a number of business interests in Marion and was a heavy stockholder in the Fairbanks Steam Shovel company, the Marion Shoe factory and the City National bank, being one of the bank directors.

The deceased was a member of all of the local Masonic bodies and the Presbyterian church. By his death Marion county loses one of its best and most respected citizens—a man whose life was above reproach—and the Presbyterian church, with which he had been affiliated for the past thirty-one years, one of its most loyal memebrs. He will be sadly missed by all his friends and acquaintances.

The funeral was held from the late residence, Friday morning at 10 o'clock, and was in charge of Marion Commandery, No. 36, Knights Templars. Rev. G. M. Rourke, of the First Presbyterian church officiated. The remains were laid to rest in the Marion cemetery.

A FINE POSITION FOR MISS HECKER

At Head of Health Laboratory in Los Angeles Schools.

Miss Clara Hecker, formerly connected with the Dr. C. E. Sawyer sanatorium, where she was a graduate of the Nurses' Training school in 1909, has been elected to the position of the chief of the sanitary and health labratory of the Los Angeles, California, public schools, at a salary of $100 a month. Miss Hecker only recently returned from spending the year in California, taking a post graduate course in her profession, and it was during her stay on the coast that the Los Angeles school authorities learned of her merits and later elected her to chief of labratory.

Miss Hecker is a daughter of Marion county, and is not only a winsome young lady, but a fine example of the possibilities of pluck and purpose. Depending upon herself she began to study for a professional nurse five years ago, and graduated three years later. Meanwhile she won a popularity that gave her a tour of Europe, and her continued professional progress has now been rewarded with this excellent position in the Los Angeles public schools. The Dr. C. E. Sawyer sanatorium forces and Miss Hecker's friends are very proud of her success.

An Indiana Woman Wins Husband by Her Pastry.

Wabash, Ind., Oct. 25.—Mabel Blanche Baker, twenty-three years old, of North Manchester, Indiana, when she took it into her head to get married, was not to be balked by a little thing like a locked door. So she forced open a window and climbed in.

William Bailey, of this city, inserted an advertisement for a wife. Miss Baker appeared here in answer to the advertisement. Bailey did not know she was coming. When she arrived at the Bailey home the doors were locked and Bailey was not at home. Finding an old stove poker she forced open a side window and climbed in. Removing her hat and coat she started to cook dinner and straighten up the house. Bailey appeared. He saw smoke issuing from the chimney and thought something was wrong. He found a neat trim little woman leaning over the stove, while the savory odor of the dinner arose.

"Will you be mine?" he cried.

"Just taste my pies first," she replied.

An hour later they were married by Rev. S. D. Colyer.

SOCIAL EVILS ARE DISCUSSED

Purity Congress Is on Trail of Vice.

HANDLED WITHOUT GLOVES BY SPEAKERS

Spade Is Called a Spade at the Meeting.

Man Wallows in Sensuality and Then Brings the Product of His Living to Innocent Wives and Children. Declares Famous New York Woman Physician in Speaking Before the Meeting.

Columbus, O., Oct. 25.—The social evil was handled without gloves by speakers at the sixth annual convention of the International Purity congress, who called a spade a spade and left no misunderstanding in the minds of their auditors as to their meaning.

Dr. Elizabeth Hamilton Muncie of Brooklyn, speaking on "Sensuality or Sexuality: Which?" declared that white slavery was evidence of a rotting civilization.

"Yearly," she declared, "60,000 white slaves die. Yearly that number of women are offered on the altar of sensuality. Man wallows in sensuality and then brings the product of his living to innocent wives and children. We should look after our male prostitutes just as well as our women."

Bishop John William Hamilton of the M. E. church of Boston spoke following Dr. Muncie. He advocated a national bureau for the safeguarding of the children of the country, the bureau to be permanent and the head of it to be one of the president's cabinet officers.

In speaking of divorce, Bishop Hamilton said: "The courts are making themselves bargain counters for domestic brothels. The only real cure for the divorce evil is in arousing public sentiment."

Whitlock Is Scored.

General Theodore Bingham, former police commissioner of New York and Mayor Brand Whitlock of Toledo were unmercifully scored by John B. Hammond of Des Moines, Ia., whose subject was the Iowa red light injunction law. Denouncing them as traitors to their government for advocating segregation of tenderloin districts, he said that the only remedy for the vesort evil was extermination.

George L. Sehon, superintendent of the Children's Home society of Louisville, who has saved over 4,000 illegitimate boys and girls, created a sensation when in his address on "Illegitimacy" he declared that "no woman today has a right to take up club work to the detriment of her children.

At the business session the federation changed its name from "The American Purity federation" to the "World Purity federation."

Governor and Mrs. Harmon entertained the visiting delegates with a reception at their East Broad street home.

AMERICA'S "GRACE DARLING" IS DEAD

Miss Ida Lewis Passes Away at Her Newport Home.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 25.—Miss Ida Lewis, the "Grace Darling of America," died here Tuesday night at the age of seventy-two. Miss Lewis was stricken with apoplexy last Sunday and never regained consciousness.

For over half a century she has kept the light at Lime Rock, and has in that time saved eighteen lives. She was a great favorite with all naval officers and prominent Newport people, and during the past two days has received gifts of flowers from many people. Among her callers yesterday was Mrs. Elsie French Vanderbilt.

A pathetic side light on the death of Miss Lewis came last night when Colonel William Coffin, commanding the Narragansett defense district, gave notice that he had received orders from the war department to cease target practice during Miss Lewis' illness. The noise from the big guns and mortars had seemed to trouble the patient, who started and moaned with every concussion of the guns. The order came too late, for when it was received Miss Lewis was dead.

A Small Company of Friends Is in Attendance—Following a Wedding Dinner Mr. and Mrs. Frye Leave for a Trip to Niagara Falls—Will Make Home in This City.

In the presence of about twenty of their most intimate friends and relatives Mr. and Mrs. Priest gave their daughter, Miss Emma Louise, in marriage to Mr. Ray C. Frye, who came to Marion from Findlay a couple of years ago.

The bridal colors of yellow and white were used throughout in the decorations. At 4 o'clock the bride and groom, unattended, met the minister, Dr. C. R. Havighurst, of the Epworth M. E. church, before an arch of smilax and flowers and after he had read the simple but impressive marriage service, the wedding party repaired to the dining-room. The bride looked very pretty in a becoming traveling suit of navy blue.

An elegant four-course wedding dinner was served. The bride's table was adorned in white and green the table mirror being surmounted by a large bouquet of white chrysanthemums. About this flowers were strewn, and white and green candles cast a soft glow over the cloth. Above the prettily decorated table a canopy of smilax was formed of ropes of the greenery extending from the chandelier to the corners of the table.

During the early evening the young people left on a wedding trip to Buffalo and Niagara.

Mrs. Frye is a very pleasing young woman and is very active in church work, having been a teacher in the junior department of the Epworth M. E. Sunday-school for a number of years and a worker in the Epworth league. She has been employed as a bookkeeper by W. E. Frye for the past two years. Mr. Frye is a young man of excellent habits and is employed as a draughtsman by the Marion Steam Shovel company.

THOUSANDS ARE REPORTED KILLED

Imperial Army Attempts To Force a Pass Held by Rebels.

San Francisco, Oct. 26.—Dispatches received by local Chinese newspapers tell of a great battle in which the imperial army suffered heavy losses at the hands of the insurgents.

General Yin Tchang, at the head of 21,000 imperial troops, with 170 guns, attempted to force the mountain pass on the railroad dividing Hupeh and Honan provinces, and was repulsed with great slaughter. The hills in the vicinity of the pass had been crowned with artillery under the direction of Li Yuen Hung, commanding the revolutionists. The execution of the guns firing shrapnel was fearful as the imperial troops entered the pass. In addition, the troops of the revolutionists lay in ambush on the route followed by the imperial army in their retreat from the pass.

The imperial general ordered the retreat, and under cover of his heavy guns succeeded in drawing off part of his army, although thousands were left dead on the field, and thousands threw down their arms and welcomed the rebels. The republican army, which was less than 15,000 before the battle, now numbers close to 20,000 men.

This decisive battle now clears the way for the rebel march on Peking, as remnants of the imperial army, which is now intrenched at Wu Sing, will not be able to oppose the advance of the republicans.

COURT STRIKES DEFENSE BLOW

Consternation Reigns in McNamara Camp.

JUDGE RULES ON DISQUALIFICATIONS

And State Wins in Strenuous Contention.

As Long as Juror Says His Opinion Does Not Go to Innocence or Guilt of the Defendant, and Declares Such Opinion Does Not Bias Him, He Can Qualify Under the Code, Says the Court.

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 23.—Judge Bordwell, presiding at the trial of James B. McNamara on charge of blowing up the Los Angeles Times building, struck what many regard as a blow to the defense today, when he ruled that the holding of an opinion as to the cause of the Times explosion, which was formed from reading newspapers and which would require evidence to remove, is not in itself sufficient to disqualify a juror.

This is the first time since the case began that the court has ruled against the defense in a serious matter.

At the same time the court allowed the state's challenges against Veniremen Robinson and McIntosh on account of their objection to circumstantial evidence.

Judge Bordwell's sensational ruling came when an issue was made on the case of Venireman McKee.

"As long as a juror says his opinion does not go to the guilt or innocence of the defendant," the court said, "and he declares such opinion does not bias him in reaching a verdict, the court has no discretion but to hold him qualified under the code."

Creates Consternation.

The decision created great consternation among the attorneys for the defense. Attorney Joseph Scott was on his feet in an instant and shouted at the court:

"Does a juror who believes dynamite destroyed the Times qualify, while a juror who believes gas was the cause, does not?"

Judge Bordwell was plainly angered and sharply called Scott to task.

"Why do you ask such a question?" said the court. "Do you think I wish to use one side of this case partially? What do you mean by such language?"

Attorney Darrow, for the defense, here intervened and declared that as McKee was permitted to remain in the jury in spite of his expressed belief that dynamite caused the explosion, the defendant's constitutional rights were being invaded. Darrow urged this point strongly, but Judge Bordwell refused to recede from the position he had taken.

"Well, all I can do," concluded Darrow, "is to reserve my strength to enter objections."

The decision dashed the hopes of the defense and came as an utter surprise to the attorneys for that side. The defense will now be compelled to resort to peremptory challenges to eliminate McKee.

The decision leaves in the box besides McKee, Veniremen Manning, Bain and Green, all subject to peremptory challenges.

SECRETARY FISHER RAPS DENVER MAN

Replies to Statements of Former Indiana Liquor Agent.

Washington, Oct. 24.—In a hot rejoinder Secretary of the Interior Fisher today answered statements attributed to former Indian Liquor Agent Johnson, of Denver, Colorado whom he denounced as an official "whose discretion had not been equaled to his zeal." Fisher said.

"Since my return to Washington several statements attributed to William E. Johnson have appeared in the daily press which contain serious accusations against First Assistant Secretary Samuel Adams and Assistant Commissioner F. A. Abbott of the Indian office. Johnson preferred to resign from the service rather than meet certain definite charges against him. Apparently, he entirely failed to realize that a government officer in pursuit of crime must be careful that his own conduct is not open to serious criticism. If his discretion had been at all equal to his zeal he would have been continued in the service. Unfortunately, this was not the case."

DR. ANNA HOWARD SHAW REELECTED

Suffragists Honor Woman Who Fights Many Battles.

Louisville, Oct. 24.—After half a day of womanly turmoil, in which feminine temper and legislative capabilities were sorely tried, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw of Moylan, Pa., president since 1905 of the National American Woman Suffrage association, was re-elected unanimously. Second honors went to Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, who had agreed before leaving Louisville to accept the post.

TAFT ISSUES A PROCLAMATION

Insuring Neutrality of United States,

IN WAR BETWEEN ITALY AND TURKEY

President Signs Proclamation Early Today.

It Is Immediately Sent to State Department in Washington To Be Communicated to the Belligerents. Taft Spends the Day in South Dakota and Enjoys Trip Through the Hills.

Pierre, S. D., Oct. 23.—With but one day more before him in South Dakota, President Taft today invaded the eastern section of the state.

Today was largely a traveling day with the president. After breakfasting her with Representative Burke, he started for Huron, where he was due just at noon. An hour stop at Huron was the only interruption in a day of railroading that was scheduled to last until 3 o'clock this evening when the president will reach Aberdeen.

Speeding across the South Dakota prairies, President Taft issued his long-expected proclamation insuring the neutrality of the United States in the war between Italy and the Ottoman empire. The proclamation was signed shortly after the president arose this morning, and was immediately forwarded to the state department in Washington to be communicated to the belligerents.

The proclamation reiterates that "whereas, a state of war unhappily exists" between the two countries and the United States is on terms of friendship and amity with both the contending powers, "I, W. H. Taft, president of the United States, do, in order that strict and impartial neutrality may be observed in the premises, enjoin all persons owing allegiance to the United States as well as all other persons under the jurisdiction of the United States to obey the spirit of the laws governing the conduct of neutrality in times of international conflict."

The proclamation adds that all "misconducting themselves in the premise" do so at their peril.

CLEARS WAY FOR EARLY DECISION

Green Law Applying to Women Workers Goes Higher.

Columbus, O., Oct. 24.—By allowing Anna Hawley, local milliner, who refused to comply with the Green fifty-four-hour work week for women law, to skip circuit court and carry direct to the supreme court, the case involving the constitutionality of the law the supreme court today made the way clear for an early decision on the question.

Judge E. B. Dillon, of the Franklin county common pleas court, recently upheld the law in holding that Miss Hawley was wrong in breaking it by keeping a girl over-time. Miss Hawley carried the case up, contending that the fourteenth amendment to the United States constitution was violated by the terms of the law in curbing citizens' rights to make "free contracts."

SUGAR DROPS AS COFFEE ADVANCES

Granulated Decreases a Quarter of a Cent a Pound.

New York, Oct. 24.—Leading roasters advanced the price of package coffee one cent a pound to 23½ cents Monday, but families which use sugar in the beverage may find solace in the fact that a cut was made in the price of this commodity.

The Federal Sugar Refining company, of which Claus A. Spreckels is president, announced that it had cut the price of granulated sugar a quarter of a cent a pound.

None of the other sugar manufacturers announced what action they would take, but it was said no immediate reduction was contemplated.

Six hours later, fire caused $75,000 damage in the desk manufacturing plant of J. E. Dietz & Company, occupying a four-story main building and a seven-story warehouse. Workmen escaped down fire escapes.

CREMATES HER SIX CHILDREN

The Insane Act of Braddock, North Dakota, Mother.

THE WOMAN ALSO BURNS TO DEATH

After Locking Self and Children in the House.

Mother Nails Down Windows and Barricades Doors—She Pours Oil About Room and Applies Match. Husband Father, Together with Neighbors Are Unable To Save Imprisoned Tots and Mother.

Braddock, N. D., Oct. 24.—Apparently insane, Mrs. Exel Johnson, wife of a farmer residing near here locked herself and six little children in their home Monday and set the house on fire. They were all burned to death.

Johnson was working in a field some distance from the house when the tragedy occurred.

Neighbors believe that Mrs. Johnson locked and barricaded doors and nailed down the windows of the house, then saturating the room with oil she applied a match.

The neighbors who saw the smoke rushed to the home, but rescue of the woman and her babies was impossible.

The bodies were found in a corner of the living room under the smoldering mass, where they had huddled together when the flames surrounded them.

MINISTERS CALL DRESSES INDECENT

Compare Atlanta Women's Attire to Those of Underworld.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 24.—Atlanta ministers have created a sensation by severely condemning the clothes worn by women of Atlanta and advising a change in the interests of decency.

"In no town do you find such conditions as here," said Dr. C. T. A. Dise, rector of St. Philip's Episcopal cathedral. "In Baltimore, Savannah and other cities women who dress on the streets as Atlanta women dress would be taken for women of the underworld."

BOOMS MISSISSIPPI.

EARL BREWER.

Freely admitting that Mississippi is the finest State in the Union and declaring that he is proud to be a publicity promoter for her glories, Earl Brewer, Governor elect of the Magnolia State, now in New York, indorsed the "back to the farm" propaganda and averred that the best "farms" to which one could return were the cotton plantations of his own State.

UNWRITTEN LAW AGAIN ON TRIAL

As Southern Society Woman Faces Court.

THOUSANDS THRONG ABOUT COURTHOUSE

Clamoring To Gain Entrance to Court-Room.

State of Louisiana Will Demand the Death Penalty for Woman Accused of Slaying Youth—Jealousy To Figure in Case—Judge Will Bar Women and Children from the Trial—Talesmen Examined.

Opelousas, La., Oct. 24. With the "unwritten law" once again on trial, thousands besieged the little courthouse at this place today, clamoring to gain entrance to the room where Mrs. J. P. McRae, wife of a prominent Louisianan, is fighting against the state's demand for the death penalty for the slaying of Allan Garland.

Scores of talesmen were fruitlessly examined today. Nearly all had firmly preconceived opinions in the case. The selection of a jury will apparently be difficult.

Mrs. McRae, a salient, black-clad figure, sat in the prisoner's dock apparently unmoved by the preliminary steps to her trial. Occasionally, the little woman consulted with her attorneys and her husband, who had a seat beside her.

Counsel for the defense announced shortly after the session opened today that the woman herself would take the stand to relate the events of the night on which Garland met his death. Mrs. McRae will plead she fired the shot which killed young Garland in order to protect her honor. So sensational does this recital promise to be, that the court has decided hereafter to exclude all women and children from the hearings.

The state demands the first-degree penalty and alleges jealousy was the motive.

THE COMMISSION TURNS PLAN DOWN

Proposed Traction Line Wants Too Much Water in Stock.

Columbus, O., Oct. 24. Because the Wapakoneta & Kenton Traction company admitted that the construction of the road would not cost more than $500,000, the state public service commission tentatively turned down the request for permission to issue $1,000,000 of stock and $1,000,000 of 5 per cent 25-year bonds for the construction and equipment of the road. Several other companies were denied permission to make increased stock issues.

Mayor Faces Prison Term.

Columbus, O., Oct. 24. Independent of the status for the removal of mayors, there is an Ohio law providing for a $300 fine or three months' imprisonment for the offense alleged against Mayor H. H. Hall of Milford. He is charged with having changed a bill of exceptions [illegible] appealed [illegible] and substituting [illegible] Governor Harmon has so far taken no action on the removal petition.

A few tiny pieces of lemon rind added to a cream sauce for oysters, fish or lobster gives a decidedly piquant and tasty flavor.

PARLIAMENT ASSEMBLES

Lloyd-George's Famous Bill Will Come Up.

IRISH LEGISLATORS AFTER HOME RULE

Opening Sees Odd Changes in the Cabinet.

Winston Churchill Exchanges Posts with Reginald McKenna—Change Seems Very Queer Inasmuch as Churchill Will Get Less Money and Is Far Superior to McKenna Politically—Carrington Retires.

London, Oct. 24.—Parliament assembled today for its autumn session. The principal business will be consideration of the Lloyd-George workingmen's insurance bill. It is the most radical measure ever before the British legislature. Provisions are made for partly compulsory and partly voluntary insurance for certain classes of workingmen—workingmen, employers and the state contributing proportionately. The intention is to make it wholly compulsory ultimately and to apply to all classes of workingmen.

When Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd-George introduced the bill he invited criticism. He is getting plenty. Many workingmen say they are expected to pay too much towards the insurance. Some think the employers and the state should bear the entire burden. The vested interests say the employers are too heavily assessed. A third group believes the state should be exempt. Nevertheless, in some form, the bill will probably go through.

The Irish legislators inquired eagerly as soon as the commons had convened when to expect introduction of a home rule bill. Representatives of the administration intimated that it may make its appearance this fall, but that nothing is likely to be done with it before February.

Odd Cabinet Change.

Opening of the session was accompanied by an odd cabinet change. Winston Churchill and Reginald McKenna have exchanged posts. Churchill becomes secretary of the navy; McKenna secretary of state for home affairs. Inasmuch as Churchill is politically much stronger than McKenna it seems queer for him to take an office which ranks below his old one and pays less money. The general impression is that the Liberal party leaders, who think McKenna has been spending too much money on the navy, but haven't been able to stop him, have given his job to Churchill to effect drastic economies. If he succeeds in relieving England of any part of the awful financial burden of its armament he will make a big name for himself.

Minister of Education Walter Runciman was also made secretary of agriculture, succeeding Earl Carrington, who retires to a sinecure, and Joseph Albert Pease is appointed minister of education.

Flagship Arrives.

New York, Oct. 24.—The first of the 102 war vessels that are to take part in the greatest mobilization of warships ever held in America arrived off quarantine today. It was the big battleship Connecticut, the flagship of the Atlantic squadron, flying the pennant of Rear Admiral Hugo Osterhaus.

DUCKING TUB IS ABOLISHED

And Paddle No Longer Used in Pen.

SO DECLARES WARDEN JONES

He Denies Charge of Cruelty to Prisoners.

The Warden Tells Probers That All Forms of Punishment That Would Inflict Torture Are Tabooed. Jones and Former Captain of the Night Guards Shipley Make Contradictory Statements.

Columbus, O., Oct. 24.—"Heretofore the accusations against me have been that I was too humane in the handling of convicts," said Warden Thomas H. B. Jones, of the Ohio penitentiary, Monday, while on the witness stand in the probe that is being conducted by Attorney General Hogan. This statement was made in rebutting the previous testimony of former Captain of the Night Watch Solomon Shipley, who alleged that certain prisoners had been cruelly treated.

The Warden declared that the paddle, the "humming bird" and the ducking tub as well as all other forms of corporal punishment had been abolished. Instead of handcuffing unruly prisoners with their arms suspended above their heads in solitary cells they were now cuffed with their arms at the chest line, so that there could be absolutely no torture inflicted.

As for the prisoner, Albert Webb, who Shipley said was kept naked and forced to sleep upon newspapers, the warden said that he was a dangerous maniac whom the officials at the Columbus State hospital had refused to accept because they could do no more for him than was being done at the prison.

Makes Vicious Assaults.

With his hands free Webb will tear off his clothing and make foul and vicious assaults upon fellow prisoners in the prison lunatic asylum and the guards.

Webb was found handcuffed when the present administration took hold, and for a time a strait-jacket was substituted.

This proved ineffectual and the cuffs were restored. As soon as the Lima hospital for the insane is completed, Webb will be taken there. Instead of sleeping on papers the unfortunate man has a mattress and blankets.

The warden and Shipley agreed that the night the latter was discharged he said "you've got my scalp and I'll get yours."

Hogan tried to have Shipley admit that he had exaggerated the charges against Jones while angry, but he insisted that he had told the truth. Inquiry being made why he had not informed the Warden of the ill-treatment of prisoners, Shipley insisted that he had done so, a statement that Jones vehemently denied.

Jones Makes Denial.

At Shipley's request Hogan asked Jones if he had not said upon discharging the captain that he hoped he would not say anything reflecting upon his administration. Jones denied any remembrance of such a happening.

M. A. Joyce, the contractor who furnished the fish under agreement with former Steward C. B. Randall, was summoned to bring his records. Coming without them he explained that it was not his custom to keep books, and therefore had no accounts which he could show. Nor did he weigh all the shipments which he received from the wholesalers at Sandusky.

When in a hurry he simply transferred the shipment to his customers. Long experience had taught him to estimate within five pounds of the weight of a barrel of fish. If he deemed it short he put in more, and if there was a surplus he got it back. The fish for the prison was weighed there, and he never heard that the scales were out of order. This system he uses in connection with local hotels which he supplies.

Served Pen Years.

The former steward at the pen, Newton Miller, paid Joyce six and a half to eight and a half cents a pound, but the lower price was for shad when they were plentiful. The witness testified that he had been supplying the state institutions with fish for thirty-five years and had never had any trouble before. His price of ten cents a pound for fish delivered at the Gallipolis Asylum for Epileptics was not high, when it was considered that they were delivered with heads and tails off and entrals removed.

An effort on the part of Captain Shipley to have Attorney General Hogan inquire into the recent escape of two prisoners was rejected by that official on the ground that under the law it was his province only to inquire into actual crime and grafting. As there was no allegation that there was anything criminal in the matter complained of the attorney general declared that it was outside his sphere.

DEATH CLAIMS JOHN R. WALSH

Seven Days After Gaining His Freedom.

FORMER BANKER EXPIRES AT HOME

Passing Peacefully Away as Grim Reaper Comes.

Members of Walsh's Family Say His Death Is Directly Due to Mother Brooding Over His Condition and Strain of Meeting Old Faces and Loved Ones Is Too Much for the Aged Financier.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—John R. Walsh, former financier, released on parole from Leavenworth penitentiary just a week ago, after serving part of five-years sentence for bank-wrecking, died here today of heart failure.

Walsh was seventy-four years of age. He came to Chicago in the early days and gained preeminence in financial circles through astute business methods. It was December 16, 1905, however, that the financier overstepped the strict limits of the national banking law in his conduct of the Chicago National bank, of which he was president. That institution failed. January 3, 1907, Walsh was indicted on 182 counts, charged with "wrecking" the bank. Through three years of litigation, the financier fought desperately to stave off prison sentence, but the supreme court of the United States, January 17, 1910, refused an appeal and on the 19th the former bank president began a five-year term at Leavenworth penitentiary. His friends immediately began a movement to secure his pardon. Petitions were circulated throughout the Middle West, great pressure brought to bear on the president, but nowithstanding this President Taft, May 24, 1911, refused to exercise clemency.

Last month Walsh appeared before the federal parole board at Leavenworth and applied for parole, being eligible under the law. His parole was granted October 16, and the banker released after having served a year and a half of the five-year sentence.

At the time of Walsh's fight for pardon it is claimed by his friends that the financier's confinement and breaking him down and the pressure was made that he would end his days in prison. Warden McCaughtry denied these stories, asserting that his prisoner was in good health.

Wanted Long Rest.

Walsh appeared somewhat feeble when he arrived in Chicago Sunday a week ago; his hair was grayer and he apparently had lost weight. His sons, who continued their father's business after his imprisonment, declared that he would never take an active business and it was said that the financier would take a long rest.

Yesterday morning, the financier complained of feeling tired, but did not arise as usual. His son-in-law, Dr. L. Blake Baldwin, administered simple stimulants. Throughout the morning Walsh lay quietly if exhausted. At noon he became rapidly worse. The family physician was summoned when the patient experienced an alarming sinking spell.

From then on until evening there was a constant battle of the physicians and specialists who were called to keep the spark of life in the financier's body. Early this morning, with the presence of his entire family, he passed peacefully away, merely closing his eyes as the grim reaper appeared.

Members of his family today expressed the belief that the banker's death was directly due to mental brooding over his condition. They say that Walsh was greatly aged by the long confinement, at his advanced age and when released his constitution was not strong enough to meet the shocks of seeing family faces and being with his friends again. During the last few days it was said the financier had been suffering and worrying over business matters.

TAFT SENTIMENT STEADILY GROWS

Gopher State Pledges Loyalty to President.

EIGHTEEN VOTES FOR CONVENTION

Clapp, Insurgent Senator, Is Losing Prestige.

The President Is Greeted by Big Crowds Throughout Minnesota and Proves Popular with People, Even Most Radical of Insurgents Being Compelled To Make Mental Note of Taft's Reception.

Minneapolis, Oct. 25.—"Minnesota casts four votes for LaFollette and eighteen for William Howard Taft."

That's about the style of convention announcement that would be forthcoming if Minnesota's selection of delegates to the next Republican national convention were to be made today.

The fact was admitted on the Taft train yesterday by gentlemen who would have it otherwise, and who not so many months ago busied themselves in a propaganda looking to the delivery of Minnesota's twenty-two votes to the diminutive, pompadoured statesman from the Badger state.

The fruits of their labors are not in evidence. Despite their earnest and enthusiastic efforts Taft sentiment throughout the state has been growing, and many of the men who once trailed behind the banner of insurgency have turned their backs to its folds, convinced that President Taft will be renominated and that he ought to be renominated.

There is no real statewide leadership of the insurgent cause. Senator Moses E. Clapp aspires to it, and, beyond the confines of Minnesota, it may appear that he fills the public eye of his commonwealth.

How Clapp Plays.

A brief incursion into the domain of which he is supposed to be the overlord will convince the observer that the Black Eagle of Fergus Falls is not as seriously taken here as he might be—not any more seriously than in Washington, for instance.

He never was a very powerful factor in Minnesota affairs. J. J. Hill sent him to the United States senate at a time when Hill's domination was threatened by Thomas Lowry's candidacy, and Clapp was the handiest man to use against Lowry.

For a good many years Clapp danced as J. J. Hill whistled. At that time LaFollette's name was anathema with Clapp, and then, requiring the stimulus of notoriety to give him individuality, he kicked over the traces and played an insurgent hand.

For a time insurgency was a popular condition, radicalism was a word to conjure with, but, as in other states, it began to approach ebb tide, and Senator Clapp finds himself uncomfortably high and dry for a man who has a boat to sail and needs water to do it.

Moreover, even though the natural trend of things had not been away from him and toward the president, Senator Clapp was at pains to create such a trend by the course he has pursued.

May Find Fault.

Among the progressive voters of Minnesota there was a disposition to find fault with the senator for his vote on the wool tariff measure. In the opinion of many the senators should have held up the house bill until after the report of the tariff board could be submitted in December.

Some there are who have jumped to the conclusion that in his vote on this measure, as on others, the senator was actuated by the dislike he entertained for the president and any policy that might be put forward by the latter.

Lately his position was materially weakened by this inclination on the part of his constituents, and he redeemed himself in no measure whatever by hurrying to the Chicago gathering of political "explosivitas" and adding his mite to the gayety of nations by the denunciation of the president's veto of the Arizona-New Mexico statehood bill as one of the blackest acts of tryanny in the history of nations.

On the contrary, by his blovination on this particular subject he injured himself irretrievably and lost the respect and support of many of his closest political and personal friends, who denounced it as a "tactical" error.

The Climax Comes.

And today, to crown the chapter of his blunders, fresh from the Chicago gathering, his lips still running over with the "blackest tyranny" speech, Senator Clapp appeared on the Taft train, joining the party at Shakopee, bubbling over with apparent friendliness for the president, partaking of his hospitality, basking in the political sunshine, metaphorically speaking, for it actually rained all day, and leaving the president's private car for not a single moment throughout the entire day, though his features indicated that the evident enthusiasm of the crowds for the president was torture to his soul.

There were a good many Minnesota people aboard the Taft train today, but few among them who did not make some more or less sarcastic comment with regard to the senator's sojourn among them.

Altogether it was a big day for the president. It rained at Mankato, but the people minded not a whit, thousands upon thousands of them turning out to do honor to Mr. Taft and to see the president of the United States.

There was no political reference in any of the president's speeches save one, and that was at the luncheon given in his honor at Mankato. There he delivered a happy after-dinner speech, which presented a clever satirization of the latter-day political conditions of which Senator Clapp is one of the loudest exponents.

Mirth Expressed.

Senator Clapp heard the felicitous address and made no demonstration. His colleague, Senator Knute Nelson, the real Republican leader in the state, a stanch supporter of the president for the renomination and reelection, gave expression of his mirth in salvos of explosive laughter.

The president had spoken of the difficulty he encountered in defining what constitutes a Republican or a Democrt. "There are as many colors and shades," he said "as there were in the Philippines when they organized the national assembly," there for instance, was the slightest conservative party known as El Partido Progresista Independista.

"The party that was progressive toward independence, that did not constitute the large body," said the president with a broad grin that brought forth responsive laughter.

It was obvious to even the most casual observer that the hit had gone home. Of the 150 luncheon guests 149 gave evidence of their amusement.

Governor A. O. Eberhart extended a cordial welcome to the president at Shakopee. Representatives Davis, Nye and Miller also came aboard. The Mankato senator, Knute Nelson, and former Representative Tawney joined the party. Other state officials and Republicans of note were in evidence throughout the day.

Strong for Taft.

The reports regarding the political situation in Minnesota were of uniform character. As it stands today the insurgents have the better of it in two districts, now represented in the house of congress by Halvor Steenerson and Charles A. Lindbergh. There is opposition also in Charles R. Davis,' Sidney Anderson's and Andrew J. Volstead's districts, but the Taft supporters are in the majority and constantly gaining recruits.

The sentiment throughout the state, generally speaking, is strong for President Taft and assures the election of four Taft delegates at large. National Committeeman Kellogg is with the president, so is Governor Eberhart and State Chairman Smith. Senator Knute Nelson, the strongest man in the party, is standing by him. The opposition leaders are Senator Clapp and three or four of the Minnesota house members who "went insurgent." Among them was Representative Davis, who yesterday introduced President Taft to several of his audiences, taking constant occasion to assure him that "these people, Mr. President, are loyal to the government and the administration." If the introduction meant anything, it meant a good deal, and many of the Minnesota contingent aboard the train took mental note of it.

Big Outpouring.

The outpouring of Minnesota people yesterday was a high tribute to the president's popularity in the state. A steady downpour of rain in no manner dampened their enthusiasm. Fifteen hundred people heard him at Glencoe, at least 3,000 at St. Peter, in Mankato the streets were lined, a crowd of 3,000 heard him at the courthouse and 1,500 more in the opera-house. Madison Lake turned out 1,200 at the station, Waterville 2,500, Fairbault 6,000 in a steady drizzle and Northfield some 4,000.

The reception last night in Minneapolis, where the president discussed the relations of the government toward the business of the country, was equally conspicuous in the matter of numbers and enthusiasm.

At Randolph one of the most amusing incidents of Tuesday happened. The president chatted informally with the crowd about his car. He referred to the fact that he was in a farming community and suggested that the rain would be good for the fall pastures. The crowd voiced assent, and further said that the crops had been fine. "You see," the president said in explanation of the various questions he had asked, "I am something of a farmer myself."

"Are the potatoes all in?" a voice asked amid laughter.

"I am gathering them slowly," the president replied, as the train rolled away.

Speech Is Cheered.

The president last night, at the Auditorium, spoke on the relation of government to business, repeating, in large part, the speeches he made at other cities. He also replied again to the charge that he had set up the supreme court with the understanding that the judge would emasculate the anti-trust statute.

"Of course," Taft said, "there is not the slightest foundation in such a statement. The man or men who make such a charge lightly reveal the fact that they have no realization of the iniquity, the corruption that would be involved in such an understanding.

"I am proud of the men it has fallen my lot to put upon the supreme court. It is the most sacred duty that a president has to perform, and a man may well go into his closet and pray God for guidance that he may appoint to that high tribunal men of high courage, men of intelligence, men of profound learning in the law, who will say what is the fundamental law, and when it is violated."

President Taft was cheered when he declared that the railroads of the country were now trying to operate within the law, and should no longer be made "the football of demagogues and politicians."

Senator Clapp was not the least interested of his hearers.

ROCKEFELLER IS LAUDED BY PASTOR

Declares He Is Kind, Good and a Fine Listener.

Tarrytown, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Rev. Arthur T. Brooks, John D. Rockefeller's Tarrytown pastor, Monday celebrated the completion of his first year at the Baptist church. Commenting on his relations with the oil magnate, he said:

"I preach to Mr. Rockefeller as a man; I don't know him as a millionaire. As a man he is one of the finest Christian gentlemen I ever met. He is a true democrat. There is not a trace of snobbishness about him. He speaks as kindly to the poorest in our church as to those that have wealth. He is one of the last men out of the church. He stands around and has a kind word for every one, and he goes out of his way to say it.

"Mr. Rockefeller is one of the most attentive listeners I have. And he will remember a sermon longer than anyone else.

"I never would change a sermon because I happened to know Mr. Rockefeller would be a listener. He goes to church to worship, not to be patted on the back.

"The home life of Mr. and Mrs. Rockefeller is just as devotional as it can be. The first thing you see when you go into their drawing room is a Bible, and it is not dusty, either. All the books on that table are religious books.

"Mr. Rockefeller is the healthiest man for his age I ever knew. He rides a bicycle like a boy of fifteen. He can drive a golf ball further than many a professional golfer. He has a fine sense of humor."

NEW YORK HARBOR TO BE SCENE OF MOST POWERFUL AGGREGATION OF WAR CRAFT EVER ASSEMBLED UNDER AMERICAN FLAG

Through the efforts of President Taft and George von L. Meyer, Secretary of the Navy, there will be mobilized in New York Harbor on October 31 for inspection and review the most powerful aggregation of fighting ships ever assembled under the American flag.

There will be 102 vessels in line, and Rear Admiral Osterhaus will be commander-in-chief of this monster fleet. Rear Admiral Osterhaus will fly his flag from the battle ship Connecticut. In a statement concerning the object of this gigantic naval display the Secretary of the Navy said:—"The purpose of this mobilization, almost unprecedented in American naval history, is towfold. Primarily, it is to show the preparedness of the fleets, and the defects, if any, in personnel and material.

"I have sought to impress upon the country the fact that the fleet is the navy, and the navy the fleet; all else is auxiliary. Therefore, it is my purpose to do all that I can to develop the fleet as a highly organized, self-sustaining, efficient, potential sea fighting power.

"The mobilization was ordered on comparatively short notice, less than thirty days. The ships were scattered after a year of hard work, many of them undergoing repairs. Making all the ships ready for the great assembly will be a splendid test of the ability of the fleet and of the organization in answer to the requirements which would be imposed upon them in case of emergency.

"Secondarily, the mobilization is for the benefit of the nation. I want to bring the navy closer to the people; I want as many citizens as possible to see the fleet assembled in its greatest strength. The people pay for the navy cheerfully. I think they will be even more willing to concede its value when they see what a tremendous potential fighting power it is as an assurance for peace."

Perhaps the most imposing phase of the mobilization will be the review on November 1, when the entire fleet will steam past the Mayflower, on board of which Secretary Meyer will be, with his aids and guests.

WRIGHT GLIDER GREAT SUCCESS

Inventor Makes Record-Breaking Flight.

HANGS HIGH IN AIR FOR TEN MINUTES

Machine Soars and Acts Like a Buzzard.

Success of Experiment of Wrights Is Understood To Mark Long Step Forward in the Science of Aviation, and To Point Way Toward Solving Problem of Automatically Preserving Equilibrium.

Kill Devil Hill, N. C., Oct. 25.—In a fifty-mile gale Tuesday, Orville Wright went aloft and remained virtually stationary in his glider, with which he is conducting experiments in aerial stability. He was up nine minutes and forty-five seconds and maintained an altitude of approximately 150 feet.

The record-breaking flight was the seventeenth in a series that began yesterday when the rain ceased. The first glide lasted only fifty-four seconds, each lengthening until the final one.

The success of the experiment is understood here to mark a long step forward in the science of aviation, and to point the way toward solving the problem of automatically preserving the equilibrium of heavier-than-air machines.

When Lorin Wright and Alexander Ogilvie, the English aviator, brought out the machine for the initial flight the wind gauge showed that the gale was thirty-five miles and freshening. Sand carried by the wind pelted the aviators, the tiny particles cutting like small shot.

Soars Like a Bird.

The glider was equipped with a rear rudder of twenty-four feet spread. In front, to preserve the balance, a ten-pound bag of sand was swung on the end of a rod extending eight feet in front of the aviator's seat. The ailerons, or balancing wings, on the sides of the machine, were adjusted, and Orville Wright lifted himself into the seat.

"Let it go!" he shouted.

Lorin Wright and Ogilvie thrust the glider into the face of the rising gale and it shot up. Again and again this was repeated, each flight becoming lengthier, until for almost ten minutes Wright soared like a brooding buzzard on the rush of a fifty-mile gale.

To Lessen Perils.

Ogilvie made several brief flights at the close of the day, but none even approximated the success made by Wright. It was apparent that the maintenance of poise and balance rested as much on the ability and skill of the aviator as upon the mechanical contrivances by which the Wrights hope to minimize the perils of flying.

Orville Wright admitted his satisfaction with the results, and declared the conditions under which the flight was made were unusually severe.

"There were more different and differing air currents up there," he said, "than I have ever experienced before. It was a novel and exciting experience."

SCALE OF PRICES FOR HUMAN LIFE

It Is Proposed for Adoption by Mine Operators.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—Here is the scale of prices for human life and human sufferings, which a committee of the American mining congress in session here today proposed for adoption by operators all over the country.

For one life, $1,500.

For one leg or one arm, $500.

For one eye, $250.

For maimed hand, left $250; right, $500.

For one finger, $50 to $100.

The report was made by John H. Jones, of Pittsburgh, chairman of the committee on workingmen's compensation, and himself owner of the Marianna mine, scene years ago of a terrible disaster. The committee reported that $1,500, the amount scheduled for one life, was about the average of three years' wages as a miner.

Jones said that the operators had decided to attempt to frame a general scale for death and injuries, as a protection to the miners and their families against lawyers and "ambulance chasers."

Man From Four States.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 24.—Fred Lerron registered at a local hotel from Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, and Arizona—and then explained that his ranch house extended into each of those states.
